Instructor urges economic interdependence

Hamid Gholamnezahd, head of Eastern's energy management department, spoke to a near capacity crowd at Coleman Hall Thursday night. (News photo by Rich Bauer)

by Mike Nolan and Andy Robeznieks

Hamid Gholamnezahd, head of Eastern's energy management department, called isolation "a thing of the past" and said "global interdependence is a means, not an end, to security and freedom."

Gholamnezahd spoke on the problems and prospects of global interdependence before a near capacity audience Thursday night at the Coleman Hall auditorium.

"The opposite of interdependence is not independence but dependence," Gholamnezahd said.

Stressing that a major shortage of oil will occur before the turn of the century and cause widespread economic disruption, Gholamnezahd said the period between 1985 and 1990 could be "the most critical period in human history when energy will play a central role."

During these years, world demand for oil will far outdistance the supply.

Major nations must develop alternative forms of energy to satisfy the need, Gholamnezahd said.

Among sources of future energy, coal liquification, oil shale, solar energy and nuclear fusion prove most promising, Gholamnezahd said.

To offset excessive trade deficits due to oil imports, the United States and Russia have flooded the Middle East with the sales of weapons, Gholamnezahd added.

In 1978, the U.S. tried to ease a $27 billion trade deficit by exporting $13 billion of weapons to the Mid East, he said. The Mid East may use these weapons for stockpiling or in direct force since a nation will not go to war without the means to fight and arms exporting countries such as the United States are creating such a will to fight, he said.

Gholamnezahd said with the possible aggression in the Middle East, the Russians will attempt to control the flow of oil from the Persian Gulf since they also have an oil shortage.

He added a grain embargo by the U.S. is not a good idea since it affects the people of Russia by denying a basic essential of life and does not hurt the government.

He said the common people are getting caught in the middle of government-versus-government conflict and that the people of communist nations cannot speak up for themselves. He added the developed nations of the world must unite to solve the problems of the entire world on a friendly and international basis.

Medical building planned near hospital

by Tim Schmidt

Preliminary plans for a medical facility to be constructed just east of Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center are being discussed, Bill Heise, director of Charleston's zoning appeals and planning board, said Wednesday.

The plan consists of 10 individual medical offices, which would house two doctors each, and one larger building, the use of which is still undetermined. The entire project would cover about 10½ acres of land, Heise said.

Doctor L.E. McNeill, a coordinator of the plan, said the larger building may house the Coles County Mental Health Center, which would be moved from Mattoon, or it may be made into a day-care center for the elderly.

A commercial pharmacy is also a possibility, McNeill said. But if zoning problems with the pharmacy cannot be worked out, the pharmacy possibility will be dropped from the plan, McNeill said.

Another problem with the project centers around its use of the hospital's water and sewage system which comes from Mattoon, McNeill said.

"It would be ideal to tap into the hospital's water and sewage system," he said.

If the project is not allowed to tap into the hospital's facilities, well water and a septic system can be used, McNeill said.

McNeill said there has not been any major problems with the project so far. He said problems have arisen, but there are a couple of alternatives, so they can be worked out.

Heise said the project "would attract physicians to the area" and added that there certainly is a need for more doctors in this area.

Marty's panther symbolizes long-time tradition

(Editor's note: This is the first in a series of stories featuring Charleston bars.)

by Vicki Shaw

For over five years, the panther has stalked its territory on the corner of Fourth and Grant. Harsh weather and mischievous students have done their best to destroy this magnificent animal. And although its coat is dull, one ear is badly damaged and it suffers from several minor inflections, the panther continues to stand tall and proud in its domain on the east side of Marty's.

Manager Dave Kinniard said the panther was placed at the entrance to Marty's in 1974, one year after Marty Pattin, Dave Block and Dale Holt bought the building from Walt Warmoth.

The building was erected in 1953, Kinniard said. For 20 years Warmoth had run the restaurant under the name Walt's.

Pattin, who is now a pitcher for the Kansas City Royals, grew up in Charleston and attended school at Eastern. While in school, Pattin started working for Warmoth, Kinniard said.

When Warmoth decided to sell the business, Pattin, along with his two partners, bought it. This was in June of 1973, Kinniard said. He added that he began working there himself at that time.

He said things really haven't changed much since. A few things were moved and a few things added, including liquor, when Pattin took over, Kinniard said.

Floyd E. Livingston, construction worker from Toledo, Illinois, recalled some of the lunch hours he spent in those early days at Walt's.

"It was just a restaurant then, no liquor. We went in for lunch around eleven to miss the crowds of students that came in at noon," he said.

"The thing I remember most was this guy carrying water glasses around to each table. He had a knack for carrying 12 at a time balanced on his arms," Livingston said.

An Eastern student described the crowds that she sees in Marty's today.

"It's usually crowded, but it's the easygoing kind. It's definitely not as Greek as some of the other bars."

She added that the people she sees at Marty's are mostly students, except on Friday afternoons.

"That's when the students show up with their parents to show them where they hang out" she said.

Have the crowds changed any between the time of Marty's and Walt's?

A life-long Charleston couple thought there have been some changes.

Marty's manager Dave Kinniard pauses before preparing many of the foods and beverages consumed by Eastern students and residents of Charleston throughout the year at the restaurant. (News photo by Craig Stockel)

"The people have changed though," the husband said.

"We used to blend in with the crowd. Last time we went to Marty's, I was greeted with 'Hi Pops!'"

Gacy jury selected

A jury of five women and seven men was empaneled Thursday to try John W. Gacy Jr. on charges of killing 33 young men and boys.

Still remaining to be selected are four alternate jurors. When this is done, the jurors, who were selected from Winnebago County, will be taken to Chicago and sequestered for the trial before Judge Louis P. Garippo of Circuit Court.

Garippo, who has done all the questioning of prospective jurors, has said the trial would last six to eight weeks and possibly longer.

The prosecution will seek the death penalty upon conviction. The defense will base its case on a plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

Bomber gains release

Karleton Armstrong, who spent most of the past decade behind bars for a fatal anti-war bombing in 1970, left prison a free man Thursday, leaving his brother the only person still imprisoned for Vietnam-era protests.

Armstrong, now 32, said he was grateful for the years of moral support from friends and from the Madison City Council, which had recommended his parole.

Guards end stoppage

Cook County Jail guards have ended their work stoppage after threats of suspensions and firings.

The guards had defied two court orders to return to work and were told they would be suspended or fired if they did not go back.

Fighting takes 50 lives

A fresh outbreak of fighting between Kurdish rebels and government forces has taken at least 50 lives in western Iran, a rebel spokesman said Thursday. In Tehran the revolutionary government clamped down on demonstrations in an apparent effort to head off further clashes between leftists and their foes.

The new violence in Kurdistan was the latest in a series of battles over the past year between Kurdish militants and the revolutionary guards of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Tehran regime. The Kurds are seeking greater local rule for their region.

Thompson grants relief

Gov. James R. Thompson signed into law Thursday a tax exemption bill supporters say will provide about $100 million in property tax relief, but he warned it was only a "short-term remedy."

Thompson, who had sought almost $200 million in relief through a property tax ceiling, called the new law "but a small bandage on the wounds the property taxpayers will receive when they open their 1980 tax bills."

Feds order hiring

Federal officials have ordered the Peoria Fire Department to hire more minorities or face a possible cutoff of the city's $2.2 million a year in federal revenue sharing.

One minority fireman has been hired among the 29 new recruits since 1977, said Anetha Smith, a spokesman for the civil rights office. No woman has been able to pass the physical ability test.

Montgomery Ward red over latest in bedrooms

CHICAGO (AP) — Montgomery Ward officials are redfaced over a four-letter obscenity—and not because someone yelled it at them during a board meeting.

The offending word — the most common Anglo-Saxon term for sexual intercourse—is scrawled on a bedroom wall shown on page 122 of nearly 8 million of the retailer's latest sales catalogs.

"There is a word in the background, but it's very, very hard to see," spokesman Ken Darre acknowledged Wednesday. "It slipped by the proof-readers and everyone else because unless you're specifically looking for it, it's too vague to make out."

But above it—not far from the reddish-brown, floral patterned bedspread and brass headboard—a presumably renegade employee of one of the photographic studios that prints the catalog took it on himself to add more than ambience.

The obscenity apparently was scratched into the negative just before the final galleys of the catalog were completed.

Never mind that "Eric Partridge's Dictionary of Slang and Unconventional English" traces the word's roots as far back as the Greek or Latin. Or that the Oxford English Dictionary, in the first volume of a revised supplement in 1972, credited a 15th century satirist with making it part of the Anglo-Saxon heritage by using it—in a coded fashion—to rebuke a high-minded order of Carmelite Friars.

Despite such precedents, Montgomery Ward, long regarded as one of the more conservative merchandisers in the business world, is embarrassed.

"I believe the employee in question has resigned, but not a thing can be done," Darre said. "We will apologize to anyone that calls, of course, but otherwise, we're handcuffed. Anyway, I doubt whether it will have any long-range effects."

The sales catalog is one of 12 issued annually by the company and is considerably smaller than either of the general merchandise catalogs shipped twice a year.

Darre said the catalogs were sent out about two weeks ago and the problem was first brought to Montgomery Ward's attention by a customer who called and asked about it.

"There haven't been many others," he said.

A couple of years ago, Sears, Roebuck and Co. was similarly embarrassed by a men's underwear advertisement in one of its catalogs. The photograph of the man modeling the underwear had a shadow cast on it in an area that made him appear to be in a state of arousal.

Button wearers can win prizes on the spot

by Jane Meyer

"Anywhere, anyplace, anytime the button picker may get you!"

This radio announcement is just part of the promotions campaign recently started by Charleston radio station WEIC.

WEIC program director Billy the Kidd said as part of the promotion, DJs and salesmen of the station have awarded prizes on the spot to people wearing WEIC booster buttons.

Forty area sponsors are participating in the button promotion gimmick which entered its third week Monday. Kidd said the station still has four to five weeks left in the promotion.

Kidd said the station encountered a problem during the first week of the promotion.

"The first week we were doing the button promotion we heard of people pretending to be our DJs. They walked up to people on the street and told them that they had won an oven," Kidd said. "Then they told the person to call the station for details on how to collect the prize."

"We give our prizes out right away on the spot. If someone doesn't offer you the prize right on the spot, then you are simply talking to a fool."

Kidd said response to the contest has been fantastic.

"We've had no problem at all finding them (the winners). The downtown area has been flooded with people wearing the buttons," Kidd said. "We had more than 100 winners so far."

Kidd said the station was a little hesitant to start the promotion.

"This is the first on the street-type promotion that we have tried," Kidd said. "We have never got this closely involved with people before."

He said this is the largest scale promotion the station has ever attempted.

This is the station's first really big promotion. The good response makes things look brighter for the future," Kidd said.

Kidd said the major reason for the station's increased promotions is the recent sale of the Charleston station to Champaign sister station WKIO or K104.

"They (the owners of the Champaign station) are big on promotions," Kidd said. "The promotion alone for their station last year was well into the tens of thousands."

Kidd said he has encountered no major problems when approaching a

'No smoking' floors under consideration

by Keith Palmgren

The possibility of no-smoking floors in residence halls is under consideration, Lou Hencken, director of housing, said Thursday.

Hencken brought the proposed idea last week to Val Averill, RHA president, to receive feedback from students.

Hencken said he mentioned the idea because he had heard another school had tried the no-smoking floors and it had worked, and he wanted to see what the response would be here.

"Hencken brought up the idea of no-smoking floors to me and wanted to know what the halls thought about it," Averill said.

Averill said she informed the RHA representatives to go back to their floors and get students' opinions on the subject.

Hencken said his support for the idea would all depend on what RHA decides upon.

"If the RHA likes the suggestion I will pursue it. If they don't like it, I'll drop it," he said.

He said as of now he has no strong feelings on the subject either way. "It all depends on the feedback," he said.

winner although at first many winners are apprehensive.

"I have to go up to somebody and say hi, how are you, and what's your name, and then I have to keep walking with them to keep up the conversation," Kidd said. "One girl didn't really want to talk but as soon as I mentioned prizes she stopped dead in her tracks."

Some of the prizes offered include cash, pocket calculators, discount coupons, tickets, records and gift certificates.

Kidd said winners have been approached on the square, the Mattoon Mall, Oakland and other surrounding towns. He said that station representatives will also be traveling to Sidney, near Champaign, because some of the station's sponsors are located there.

Kidd said another place where winners can be found is on Eastern's campus.

"The promotion is very oriented toward the student population at Eastern," Kidd said. "We'll be attending some of the Eastern home basketball games."

Kidd said the station is planning several more promotions including the Groundhog contest beginning at midnight on Friday.

Kidd said the station will be playing recorded cuts from DJ Dan Michels that will make the listeners assume that he is underground in a hole.

Contestants entering the contest are asked to pick a time when they think that Michels will emerge from the hole and whether he will see his shadow or not.

"He's going to come out sometime in the morning when the sun is up," Kidd said.

New management courses for Energy dept. approved

by Herb Meeker

The Council on Academic Affairs Thursday approved four new management courses in a move to revise Eastern's energy management major.

The energy management major will now contain 100 semester hours as opposed to the 83-84 hours previously required. The new management courses are 3850, "Energy Conservation"; 3951, "Site Visitation"; 4931, "Energy Policy" and 4940, "Energy Policy II."

Also, the council rejected a proposal from Art Snider and Calvin Campbell, of the Academic Assistance Center asking for clear definition of the class standing prerequisites concerning 3000 and 4000 level courses in the university catalog.

"We want to make it more visible to students what the numbers mean in regard to class standing," Campbell said.

In other business, the CAA approved a home economics course, 4751, "Diet Therapy" and gave agreement to an Arts and Sciences Committee resolution requesting the council to consider the fulfillment of quality education in its review of general education requirements.

Give the student loan cheaters stiff penalties

A widespread student loan scandal has to be stopped before it gets too far out of hand. The scandal involves some student receiving federal loans or grants, getting an education with this money, and then after graduation, "forgetting" to repay the loan.

For example, U.S. Attorney Gerald Fines recently filed another suit against 19 central Illinois residents, charging them for not repaying $26,464.27 in loan money.

The suits are a part of a continuing crackdown on loan cheaters by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Veterans Administration.

A bothersome sign is the effort involved to get individuals to repay their loan obligations. Federal officials have to track down the offenders and go through a lengthy court battle before the money is paid back. The cost involved in bringing offenders to justice chips away the amount of money the government recoups.

What needs to be done is a better credit review of the applicants before loans are disbursed. Students who have a genuine financial need should be able to get sufficient funds with an amount or payment schedule they can handle after graduation.

Also, severe penalties have to be imposed when loan cheaters are convicted. This can be a deterrent to others who have the inclination to take the government for a free ride by not repaying loans.

The money wasted by tracking down loan offenders can be better utilized as more capital in the loan program. With budget cuts and the increasing cost of higher education, these loans and grants are important.

And it is important to keep the program running smoothly, by keeping the money flowing out comparable to the money being repaid. The crackdown on violators should continue until the problem is under control.

Early morning intruders lead to few secure answers

Being woken up at 5:12 a.m. by loud, drunken voices outside of your door is not a fun experience especially when it happens on the weekend and when the culprits are not from your dorm and maybe not even from Eastern.

Sunday morning two male voices and one female voice huddled around my door as my roommate and I stared at the door in disbelief, whispering back and forth "What do they think they're doing?"

Rational thinking somehow does not come easily that early in the morning especially when you feel helpless because you're in a nightgown. So my roommate and I lay in bed wondering what we should do.

The drama heightened as one of the hands outside the door tried the handle of the door. My roommate gasped since she was not sure if I had locked the door. The parents' warnings paid off that time.

But the experience shook us a little and we felt a little silly because we weren't sure what we should have done. I wondered whether we should have called the security police and told them about the incident—especially since the "intruders" obviously did not go to Eastern. (They left their phone numbers on the door).

I longed to start yelling from within the safety of the locked room, but the thought of three sets of fists pounding on the door at that time in the morning seemed ghastly.

Our resident assistant suggested later that we should have opened the door after they were part way down the hall and yelled at them or chased them. We weren't quite that brave.

I wanted to do something though. I hated the thought of letting the obnoxious morons get away with disturbing the peace, especially mine and especially on a weekend. But they did get away and no, we didn't do a thing but express our disgust through a variety of verbal torrents that most people wouldn't be accustomed to at 5 a.m.

So I decided to call the Security Police to see what we should have done and to get some information to pass on to other students who might face similar problems.

You'd think it would be relatively easy to find something like that out, BUT NOOOOO! Once I identified myself as being from the Eastern News, the secretary informed me that no telephone interviews were being given and that I would have to come to the office to talk to one of the policemen. Fine. Except that isn't always possible when you consider most of us have classes in addition to our newspaper responsibilities. But that's another story.

So simply as food for thought, try thinking the way they taught you to in driver's ed in high school and apply that to everyday situations. Always be ready for the unexpected and always have a plan of action ready.

Letters to the editor

G.I. bill

Editor,

In the article concerning my opinions on the draft there was a portion that I feel should be clarified.

Those people that enlisted after December 31, 1976 are not entitled to the "G.I. Bill". Those who enlisted prior to that date will be eligible to use their benefits until December 31, 1989.

Those who enter the military after December 31, 1976 are entitled to participate in a contributory plan that is not nearly as beneficial to the veteran.

70's albums

Editor,

In regards to the Friday, Jan. 25 issue of ON THE VERGE and particularly ALBUM REVIEW, we would like to know why we are subjected to a single individual's views on musical achievements this past decade in a publication which is meant to inform and entertain the entire Eastern student body?

How can a supposed authority on music (we assume he's an authority, you gave him his own column) overlook such recording artists of the 70's such as Stevie Wonder, The Bee Gee's, Elton John, Peter Frampton and a host of others. Whether the individual readers tastes conform to that of the country's as a whole is not the focal point of this issue. When evaluating a subject of varied opinions, the majority decides.

John Stockman uses his "personal reactions" and "gut feelings" as criteria for evaluation. We would like to know why an album that filled the airwaves and tape players like "Frampton Comes Alive" or one that put America back on the dance floor, "Saturday Night Fever", is less moving than Sid Vicious or The New York Dolls?

When someone reads a column about album reviews that person might be looking for new music to invest in. Would it be fair for that person to given reference to artists, who may be there best in their respective fields, but never before heard of by the ordinary consumer? Stockman doesn't bother to mention what type of music each album is, besides "Rock and Roll" which contains numerous sub categories within itself.

Mr. Stockman, we found your choice of albums offensive, but it's your opinion and you are entitled to it.

The question is how will the Eastern News be able to be fair enough to allow the other 9000 plus individuals to voice their musical opinions? GOOD LUCK.

Charleston sewer system very complex...

by Sandy Young
Very few persons stop to wonder what happens to the water that flows down the drains after the dishes are washed or the bath is finished. At this point, the waste water and treatment plant takes over. "The (chemical) water treatment plant takes water from the river and pumps it to the plant, purifies it and puts it in the lines so the water can be used by anyone. After the water comes from there we take over," Water Superintendent Gary Brinkmeyer said. Brinkmeyer traced the path the water follows after it reaches the sewage plant. After it is pumped in from the main pump station, the water enters a grit chamber, Brinkmeyer said. This function removes raw sewage such as sand, gravel and inorganic materials that are washed into the sewer system, he said. The grit is then picked up on a conveyer belt similar to a grain auger and dumped into a trough where it is washed out and removed, he said. Next the water moves into an aeration process in which bacteria is constantly mixed with the raw sewage to break down the organic material in it. Brinkmeyer pointed out that at this stage the water assumes a brown muddy color from the bacterial mass. The raw sewage that first enters the plant is yellowish in color, he added. After the aeration process, the water enters the clarifiers, where the remaining inorganic materials separate and settle out, leaving the water clear in appearance, Brinkmeyer said.

...lake water pumped, purified, sent to Eastern

by Sandy Young
Turn on a faucet at any time of the day and out pours clear, clean water for drinking, cooking, bathing or other innumerable uses. It sounds like a simple, uncomplicated process, but, actually, before water reaches Charleston residents, and after they use it, it must go through complex cleaning and purifying processes. Before residents turn on their faucets, the water must go through a chemical treatment process at the Charleston water pumping station. The station, located southeast of Charleston, pumps water directly from Lake Charleston. Immediately after the water is pumped in from the lake, chlorine is added to it, Duane Leaf, a chemist and water operator at the station, said. The water is then pumped into a mixing chamber where chemicals are added to it through color coded pipes. Aluminum sulfate, or alum, is added to take the mud out of the water. Lime is put in to give the water a high Ph and alkalinity so the alum will work, and carbon is added to take out the bad taste and smells in the water, Leaf said. Leaf referred to an incident that happened a couple of months ago when the town's water had a bad taste. He attributed this to a "lake overturn." This overturn happens when the bottom of the lake, which is covered with silt, comes to the top, causing bad odors to escape. Leaf said more carbon was added to the water to take care of this problem, but eventually the problem corrected itself when the lake stabilized. Water Superintendent Steve Buxton said no potential danger exists from the use of these chemicals. After the chemicals are added, the water is pumped into clarifiers where the mud settles out, Leaf said. It is then pumped into gravity filters containing layers of sand and anthracite coal. These layers catch particles and get rid of any odors or tastes that remain in the water. These filters are cleaned out regularly, Leaf added. The water is then post-chlorinated. The chlorine kills bacteria and other diseases, and "it won't hurt unless it (the level of chlorine) is really, really high," Leaf said. "The idea is to make sure if you drink water you won't get sick from it," he added.

High-priced gold and silver causes cutbacks

by Holly Headland

With the worldwide surge in the prices of gold and silver, three Eastern departments are experiencing rising costs in materials needed for some of their classes.

Silver has risen to $36.10 per ounce, an increase that puts the cost of silver higher than what an ounce of gold cost in 1970, according to the Jan. 14 issue of Time magazine.

Gold rose to $603 an ounce two weeks ago. However, silver's prices have shown the most change, increasing in worth by 20 percent.

The skyrocketing prices have caused some changes in class projects at Eastern.

Garret DeRuiter of the art department said of his jewelry making classes, "I will require fewer things to be done in silver."

"The students choose the metal they want to work with in any of the classes that deal with jewelry, and they choose silver. It's no easier to work with, but it has appearance and it's traditional," he said.

The cost increase, "won't prevent the students from working with it but they'll work less in it," he added.

In the chemistry department, a traditional chemistry experiment that uses silver nitrate will have to be cut out of the chemistry classes, David Ebdon, head of the department, said.

"We don't deal that much in gold, but the price of silver nitrate has gone up significantly. Platinum has gone up too. In a catalogue it was priced at $350 an ounce, on the phone I was quoted $1,000 an ounce. That's how fast the prices rise," he said.

Ken Osborn, who works in the chemistry stock room, said experiments formerly using silver nitrate will be altered so the substance will not be necessary.

One chemistry staff member needed to buy some platinum for individual research, Osborn said. Last year a piece of platinum wire was $59, this year it was $124, he added.

"Platinum is just too expensive to work with," Osborn said.

Also, the journalism, technical education and physics departments will all be experiencing higher costs for the photographic supplies they use.

This month Kodak has increased its prices by 30 to 75 percent, Tom Hodges, a news photography teacher, said. Kodak said the amount of price increase will depend on the amount of silver in the product, he said.

Both photo paper, which pictures are printed on, and black and white film have silver in them.

This fall a package of photo paper cost from $8.25 to $9.30 while this spring it costs $13.90, Hodges said.

The price increase will not affect the elementary education or the home economics departments. "We have enough silverware and it won't affect our budget in any way," Mary Ruth Swope, dean of the School of Home Economics department, said.

Foosball tourney set for Saturday

A foosball tournament sponsored by the University Board, M&M Enterprises of St. Louis and Eastern's Foosball League will be held Saturday in the Union Rathskeller.

UB Special Events Coordinator Anne Logan said $300 in cash will be given to the top eight finishers.

The tournament will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday and is open only for doubles, Logan said.

The doubles team that takes first place will receive $100, second place, $75, third place, $50, fourth place, $25, fifth and sixth places, $15 and seventh and eighth places will take home $10, Logan said.

She said participants must bring their own quarters for the foosball table.

Those who want to participate should sign up between noon and 12:45 p.m. Saturday and pay the $5 entry fee per player at that time, Logan said.

Florida trip deadline set

The last day to sign up for the University Board-sponsored trip to Daytona, Fla., over spring break is Feb. 22, UB Special Events coordinator Anne Logan said Tuesday.

The bus to Daytona will leave the University Union Friday, March 28 and return Sunday, April 6, Logan said.

"We already have at least one bus filled," she said. The cost for the trip is $172 for a room with six people and $190 for a room with four people, Logan said.

Four and six man rooms are still available, although there is a limit, she said.

Those who want to sign up should pay their $50 deposit in the Student Activities Office located on the second floor of the Union addition as soon as possible to confirm reservations, she said.

Logan added that unless students have paid the $50 deposit, their reservations are not confirmed and they are not assured a seat on the bus.

Defense leaders say U.S. not assured of winning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's top defense leaders said today that the United States could not be assured of beating back a Soviet move on the Persian Gulf and would need help from allies and friends.

"We can't assure you we could win a war there," said Defense Secretary Harold Brown, "but to cast doubt on our ability to deter or fight effectively is damaging and unnecessarily damaging to U.S. security."

Gen. David C. Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said that "any military action carries risks and uncertainties for both sides. Neither could be confident of the outcome."

Brown and Jones testified before the Senate Armed Services Committee about the administration's proposed $142.7 billion defense budget.

The two officials were asked repeatedly whether the United States could carry through with President Carter's declaration that this country would turn back any attempt by an outside force to gain control of the oil-rich Persian Gulf region.

"The commitment is to fight," Brown told Sen. Harry Byrd, I-Va. "It would be a mistake to assume a war between the United States and the Soviet Union can be won by either side."

Byrd said Carter "may be talking tough and carrying a little stick."

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who also questioned U.S. ability to carry through Carter's pledge, asked whether the president had any commitments from Persian Gulf countries to help the United States defeat a Soviet bid to gain control of the region.

Brown said the United States has had "indications" it could have access to facilities in the region.

"I believe it goes without saying our ability to defend a region depends upon the participation of the people in that region," he continued.

"I'm not speaking about their military capability alone," he added.

Residence Hall fee increase dicussed at senate meeting

by Carolyn Waller

A proposal to increase residence hall fees by about $75 per semester and a tuition increase of $48 were discussed by Student Senate members Wednesday.

Rick Brown, a member of the housing board said a $75 per semester room and board increase for double occupancy dorm rooms was proposed by Housing Director Lou Hencken. The proposal was passed by the housing board and will be considered by the administration, he said.

A $25 increase per semester for single rooms was also proposed, Brown added.

He said the proposed increases are caused by increases in utilities, food costs, and salaries.

Students who pay housing costs in installments may receive a $2.50 per installment increase next year if the proposal is approved, Brown said.

He added that if the cost of housing at Eastern goes up, students in residence halls will still have the lowest housing payments of all Illinois state schools.

Student Board of Governors Representative John Grant said the BOG will be considering a $48 tuition increase at their meeting in February.

Grant said if the BOG approves the tuition increase the proposal will go before the Illinois Board of Higher Education for approval.

Another fee increase discussed in the senate meeting concerned a $1 per semester per student increase in the University Union fees.

Kevin Sandefur, student financial vice president, said students living in the residence halls may have to pay approximately $250 more next year because of these fee increases.

Chess club meeting planned for Saturday

Eastern students interested in competing in the campus chess tournament should attend the chess club meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Union addition Greenup Room.

The tournament, which begins Saturday, will be organized on a process of elimination basis. The two winning students will then represent Eastern in a national chess tournament this spring.

Three years ago, Eastern student Marvin Dandrydge won the Midwest Regional title, Robert Barford, chess club adviser said.

For further information, students should contact Barford at his office, Coleman Hall Room 316H, or by phone at 581-3964.

Chamber orchestra highlights Celebration '80

by Nancy Douglas

"One of the nation's finest," St. Paul's Chamber Orchestra, will highlight Celebration '80: A Festival of the Arts on Sunday, April 27, according to Rhoderick Key, chairman of Celebration '80.

The majority of plans for Celebration '80, which will run April 25 through 27, are tentative, Key said.

Other music planned for Celebration will range from bluegrass to jazz to contemporary, he said. Key said there will be a wide variety of cultural events for people of all interests, including art demonstrations, poetry readings, theater productions, dances, and films.

The people of the surrounding communities will find as much of interest as college students will. Special events for children will include art, dance, music, theater and puppets, Key said.

He said the format of previous years will be followed for this, the fourth annual Celebration. The center of the activity will be on the Library Quad. Key said booths of international foods and craft sales and demonstrations will circle the quad, with an outdoor stage set up in front of Booth Library.

'Rush' dashes UB hopes, turns down concert chance

Mike Berggren, UB concert coordinator, said the group declined to

Movie "Brinks Job"

sponsored by RHA

Peter Falk and Peter Boyle will star in the RHA sponsored movie "Brinks Job" starting Thursday.

The movie will be shown at 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. Thursday in Carman Hall and in East Hall at 8 p.m.

Saturday night it will be featured in Ford Hall at 9 p.m. and the LSD complex at 10 p.m.

Sunday the film will be shown in Pemberton Hall at 7 p.m., Thomas Hall at 8 p.m. and Taylor Hall at 9 p.m.

The movie is a true story about a 1950 Brinks robbery when seven armed men walked into Brinks headquarters in Boston wearing halloween masks and later emerged with two million dollars, RHA President Val Averill said.

perform at Eastern because they wanted a bigger audience.

Berggren explained that Rush is booked through a promoter, and the promoter called him to see if the UB wanted to sponsor a Rush concert.

"They asked us if we had an open date for them and we told them yes. They called back later in the week and told us the group was booked in Ohio," Berggren said.

Berggren added the promoters chose the other alternative because they could make more money.

He said another problem for Eastern is the financial situation of the UB.

Berggren explained that because of the finances, Eastern cannot pay for any of the costs upfront.

"The only way we could pull a concert is if it is a promoted show. We cannot go and outright buy a concert," Berggren said.

Berggren added that as of yet no concerts are planned for Eastern this semester.

Grapplers put unbeaten streak on line vs. Illini

by Dave Claypool

Eastern's wrestling team will attempt to knock off its second Big Ten opponent of its dual season when the grapplers battle the University of Illinois at 3 p.m. Sunday, at Lantz Gym.

The showdown will feature a fired-up Panther squad which will be seeking to keep its four year, 31 straight dual match unbeaten streak intact against the Illini.

Coach Ron Clinton's squad is currently ranked second by Amateur Wrestling News among NCAA Division II schools and ranked 12th among all schools by National Mat News. California State-Bakersfield, which leads the Panthers in the Division II rankings, is ranked 10th by NMN.

"It's a live ball, emotionally," Clinton said. "Our guys know most of the U of I wrestlers from high school wrestling and now college, so it makes for more of a rivalry."

Clinton said the squad has had its high's and low's while preparing for Sunday's match, but he was sure his wrestler's emotions would "perk-up" before this weekend.

The Panthers, who are coming off an impressive first place finish at the second place finishes the Panthers compiled.

"I think it was mainly due to inexperience and lack of confidence," he said.

Speculating on Saturday's meet, Moore said "I don't think it is going to be any runaway. I hope we compete with more intensity. We had better start showing what we can do. Our schedule certainly doesn't get any easier."

Two runners in the 600-yard run that Moore is extremely pleased with are Joe Snyder and Scott Harrison. Snyder won the 600-yard run last Saturday, while Harrison ran as the number two man for Eastern.

Southwest Missouri tournament last weekend, are hoping for a strong showing against the Illini.

"We're in pretty good shape right now. The guys have been working hard for this meet and we'll actually have two extra days to prepare," Clinton said. "I'm expecting a good match."

The Panther line-up will consist of the same squad which placed nine of its 10 wrestlers at the SWMO tournament. Included in this field are the individual champions from last weekend- Mike Polz, Bob Stout, Geno Savegnago and Dave Klemm.

Polz has a 14-8 record for the year, and Clinton said he has done a tremendous job at the 158 pound

Women swimmers bomb DePauw

Eastern's women's swim team crushed DePauw University 81-29 Tuesday night at Lantz Pool on the strength of 10 first place finishes.

Eastern's foursome of Ricki Rousey, Lynn Miner, Lori Gill, and Dianne Derren ignited the Panther onslaught by taking first in the 400-yard medley relay with a time of 4:24.0.

Senior Bonnie Lovett outswam teammate Vicki Farr to take first in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 6:00.5. Farr came in a close second at 6:01.3.

The Panther's Ricki Rousey helped continue Eastern's domination of DePauw by capturing the top spot in the 100-yard backstroke event with a time of 1:04.9. Eastern's Dina Panos finished second in 1:14.0.

The Panthers also dominated the 100-yard breaststroke event, in which Eastern's Lynn Miner, Tammy Voorhees and Betsy Kenyon took first, second and third with times of 1:12.1, 1:22.8, and 1:24.1.

Eastern also captured the first three places of the 200-yard butterfly event. Sharon Bird took first with a time of 2:16.3, followed by Lori Gill at 2:20.8 and Martha Dennler at 2:38.1.

Linda Conrad took first for Eastern in one-meter diving, amassing 166.20 weight class.

Clinton also said 1978-79 All-Americans Stout, Savegnago and Klemm have been his most consistent wrestlers this season and are well on their way to a repeat of last years' showing.

Randy Blackman, another All-American, will take the reigns for the Panthers at the 118 pound class, while freshman Derek Porter continues to fill in for the injured Doug Schafer at the 126 pound slot.

Junior All-American Bob McGuinn will attempt to put himself back on the winning track while wrestling at the 134 pound spot.

John Balenorts will wrestle at 142 for the second straight week and Kenny Blackman will compete at 150.

Senior Sam Carson, who made his first appearance of the season last weekend and placed third as a 177 pounder, will try to beef up the heavier weights of the Panther line-up.

"If Sam can maintain his weight, he will really give us a boost," Clinton said.

Carson was a 210 pound defensive tackle for the Panther's football team last season.

Clinton said if he had to rank where the Illini will finish in their Big Ten race, it would be around fourth or fifth.

Fast start carries Youngstown past Panthers

by Brian Nielsen

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio—Outscored from the field, Youngstown State capitalized on 21 more free throw chances to down Eastern 70-69 Thursday night in a Mid-Continent Conference basketball game.

Youngstown State stormed out to an early lead, allowed the Panthers to catch up and then pulled away again to raise its season record to 15-2, which includes nine straight home court wins.

The Penguins, ranked 13th in this week's NCAA Division II poll, moved into second place in the MCC with a 2-2 record.

Northern Michigan topped Northern Iowa 67-58 to take over sole possession of the league leadership it shared with Eastern before Thursday night.

Eastern, ranked seventh in Division II, ended its road trip on a sour note after winning the first two away-from-home encounters.

The Panthers will bring a 14-4 overall record and 2-2 MCC mark back to Lantz Gym Saturday night for a 7:30 p.m. non-conference encounter with Merrimack College.

Thursday night, Eastern was hampered by cold shooting, but still outscored Youngstown from the field.

The Panthers made 24 of 69 shots for a .347 percentage compared to Youngstown's 22 of 44 for .500 accuracy.

But Eastern was whistled for 28 fouls in the game and the Penguins 17. The home team converted 26 of its 37 free throws while the Panthers hit 12 of their 16 shots from the line.

Youngstown appeared to be on the way to a romp in the early going when the Panthers went scoreless in the first 7:22 of the contest.

The Penguins led 10-0 before Craig DeWitt finally broke the ice for Eastern with two free throws.

The Panthers did not get a field goal until the 11:58 mark of the second half when Chuck Turk hit a jumper.

Youngstown had several 12 point leads, but the Panthers were able to cut the margin to 30-26 by the intermission despite 30.5 percent field goal shooting in the first half.

Rebound baskets by Mike Pickens and DeWitt tied the score early in the second half, but then Youngstown answered with a 15-2 spurt to go ahead 45-32.

During that span Eastern's bench was hit with a technical foul.

Eastern never got closer than six points from then on.

Youngstown was led by 6-foot-5 forward Dave Zeigler with 23 points, all but two in the second half.

Steve Alexander added 17 points, and center Mitchell Atwood had 12 points and a game high 12 rebounds.

Eastern was led by center Dennis Mumford's 16 points, DeWitt's 12 and Turk's 10.

Merrimack will bring a 7-10 record to Lantz Gym Saturday night. The North Andover, Mass. team is the second squad from the eastern area to visit Lantz.

Nearly two weeks ago the Panthers overwhelmed nationally-ranked Bryant College 83-58, and Eddy said that fact could work to Eastern's disadvantage Saturday night.

"I would imagine they've contacted Bryant so they'll probably have a better line on us than we have on them," Eddy said earlier this week. "The thing we must avoid is assuming we'll have an easy time with them simply because we had a pretty good spread against Bryant."

"We know very little about this team," the coach said. "By looking at their roster I suspect they're similar to Bryant—tall, stocky players, the kind that could give us some trouble on the boards. We need another aggressive, defensive effort and get them off balance."

Merrimack is led by 6-foot-6 junior forward Tom Lavelle who is averaging 21 points and 6.9 rebounds per game while shooting 50 percent from the field.

The Warriors' only other double figure scorer is 6-foot-6 center Jack Uhlar, a transfer from Boston College who is hitting 13 points per game.

Eastern—LeTourneau 1-0-2, Patten 0-0-0, Oldham 1-2-4, Williams 1-2-4, Ellis 0-0-0, Robinson 2-1-5, Turk 5-0-10, Pickens 3-0-6, DeWitt 4-4-12, Jones 0-1-1, Jacob 0-0-0, Mumford 7-2-16, Total 24-12-60

Youngstown St.—Alexander 5-7-17, Zeigler 6-11-23, Atwood 6-0-12, Miodrag 1-5-7, Burns 3-0-6, Carter 1-1-3, Lombardi 0-2-2, Brooks 0-0-0, Total 22-26-70

Panther trackmen to host 5-team meet

by Matt Davidson

Eastern's injury-plagued track team will host a five-team meet at 2 p.m. Saturday at Lantz Fieldhouse.

The Panthers will compete against Southeast Missouri, Southwest Missouri and Parkland and Lincolnland junior colleges.

For the second week in a row, Eastern will be competing without distance man Reo Rorem and hurdlers Augustine Oruwari and Bob Johnson. Johnson is the Division II defending national champion hurdler.

Head coach Neil Moore said Rorem is almost up to par, but Oruwari is far from being ready to compete.

Johnson has a knee injury, but Moore said it does not appear to require surgery.

"The swelling in his knees has gone down, and he is almost ready," Moore said.

While the team is obviously not at full strength with three of its top performers out, Moore said the injuries have given some of his runners an unexpected chance at competing.

One facet of Saturday's meet which will differ from last week's season opener is the distance runs. The three-mile will be ran instead of the two-mile.

Moore said the Panthers are undoubtedly the favorites going into Saturday's meet.

"We will be entering everyone we think can possibly place," he said. "The meet will favor us, since we are the home team," he added.

To make up for the absence of senior hurdlers Oruwari and Johnson, Eastern will insert five decathletes in their place. John Molen, Mark Stockwell, Mark Schrimpf, George Dirks, and Joel McKinney will help beef up the handicapped Panthers.

"We are putting them in everything they can do," Moore said.

Even though the tracksters outscored SEMO by 23 points to take second place in last week's triangular meet, Moore feels that fact is somewhat misleading.

"The competition is with SEMO," Moore said. "They are a much better team than last week. They had some problems with false starts, so I'm sure

Eastern's Bob Feller crosses the finish line to take a first place in an exhibition track meet on Jan. 20. The trackmen return to action against four other schools at 2 p.m. Saturday at Lantz Fieldhouse. (News photo by Rich Bauer) they've been working on that," he added.

Moore said he specifically asked Southwest Missouri to compete because of the quality of distance runners it has.

"They will give us some real quality distance races," he said.

Both Lincolnland and Parkland are expected to bring some fine runners which should add to the quality of the meet.

"It should be a good meet with good balanced competition in every event," Moore said.

One fact Moore was displeased with in last week's meet was the nine

Petty's voice cuts like a knife on new album

DAMN THE TORPEDOES
Tom Petty & The Heartbreakers

It's Tom Petty's voice that gets me. I don't know why, but it seems a distillation of something purely American. Like a Bowie knife. And like a favorite knife, Petty's sturdy, often sneering voice shows the effects of use.

Like the stanza that leads into the chorus of "Here Comes My Girl," his vocal chords sound as nicked as a blade that's run into a few hard places. Or the chorus of "What Are You Doin' In My Life," his voice seems as hard and thin as the edge of a well-honed knife.

The Heartbreakers are no slouches either. If Petty is the Bowie, then the band is the well-oiled leather sheath he fits in. In "Here Comes My Girl" Petty says, "Watch her walk" and listening to the Heartbreakers understated playing you just know she has the cutest little walkaway this side of vinyl.

Because of their sound, Petty and the Heartbreakers are often compared to the Byrds, but in attitude I think they're closer to Creedence Clearwater Revival. As a writer and singer Tom Petty is John Fogerty 10 years down the road.

It's hard to say whether Damn The Torpedoes is Petty's best album; I haven't lived with it long enough. But it's at least as good as his first two and that's saying quite a bit. Like the previous two albums, Torpedoes' nine songs are all originals.

Though this is not a "concept" album, the songs do seem to have related themes. Things weren't going too well for Petty and company a little while back. Two first-class albums hadn't brought them the success they deserved or the money they needed. Petty declared bankruptcy and jumped

Album Review

by John Stockman

record labels. These songs come out of that period.

Petty may be depressed and melancholy ("Someone must have kicked you around some," he sings in "Refugee," sympathetic because he's been there), but he hasn't lost hope. In fact, that's the real point of the songs: not giving up. "You don't have to live like a refugee," he sings. Damn the torpedoes and full speed ahead!

He starts out "Here Comes My Girl:"

Ya know sometimes I don't know why
But this ol' town just seems so hopeless
I ain't really sure
But it seems I remember the good times

Were just a little bit more in focus but the crucial lines come later when he sings "When I got that little girl standing right by my side/I can tell the whole, wide world to shove it."

Things may not be going his way but in "Even The Losers," Petty knows if he hangs on long enough there's a chance:

Even the losers
Get lucky sometimes
Even the losers
Keep a little bit of pride
Get lucky sometimes
Getting lucky could be about success but I don't think so. Somewhere, somehow, sometime Petty made a journey into himself and learned an assurance that's hard to come by and that'll be his comfort when everything else plays out.

"Louisiana Rain" is the story of that passage:
Louisiana rain
Is falling just like tears
Running down my face
Washing back the years

Louisiana rain
Is soaking through my shoes
I may never be the same
When I reach Baton Rouge
He'll tell us, next album out, and I can hardly wait.

What do those numbers mean?

There's more to identification numbers than meets the eye

(Editor's note: As numbers and series of figures become increasingly visible in our society, they may take on new or hidden meanings. Reporter Diane Cooper explores the surprising world of numbers in this first article of a five-part series.)

If you've written them once, you've written them a thousand times. Driver's license and social security numbers are vital necessities to the college student. Without them, checks cannot

by Diane Cooper

be cashed conveniently, or used to make purchases.

What meaning, if any, lies behind these two all-important numbers? According to local authorities, there is much more than meets the eye.

"You can tell quite a bit about a person by looking at the number on a driver's license," Charleston driver's license examiner Catherine Smith said.

Smith said information on a person's age, sex and name are all included in his driver's license number.

If you take a look at your license, you'll find three groups of numbers, separated by hyphens. Each group gives different information, Smith said.

The first character in the number, or code, is the first letter of your last name. The three numbers following it "are based on the consonants in the last name," Smith explained. "There is a very set code. Each letter has a number," she said.

If a last name does not have three consonants, the first group of numbers will contain zeroes, she said. Some consonants, such as 'H' and 'Y' are not assigned numbers and fall into the vowel category. And, "a letter isn't coded twice if it is repeated in the last name," Smith said.

Smith said that some changes will occur in the code through marriage. "If a woman does take her husband's name, the first letter and first three numbers will change," she said.

In the second group of four numbers, the first three reveal the person's first name and middle initial, Smith said. Some names that are used commonly are assigned a number of their own, rather than using the consonant code. "The code for 'Mary,' a common name, is 58. The male counterpart, 'Marvin,' is the same number," she said.

However, a person named Mary may not find the number 58 on her license if she uses a middle initial. "We code the middle initial (if a consonant) from one to 19, and add it to the original number given for the first name," Smith explained. Therefore, if Mary's middle initial has a value of ten or more, it will alter the number more than a smaller number would, because it would simply follow the first two.

The next piece of information code is the person's year of birth straddles that last hyphen," Smith said. The last number in the second group, combining with the first number of the last group to give the person's birth, Smith explained.

The remaining three numbers give the month and day of birth. "They tell how many days the year you were born," Smith said. "The months are rounded off to the same number, 31, I think."

The same three numbers give the sex of the person, Smith said. "We add 600 (to the original three numbers) for women," she said. For men, the number would be 000.

number would be 210 for a male and 810 for a female.

Smith said a computer takes care of assigning the code numbers, and also files them for future reference. "If you lose your license, we have to use it to verify that you had one in order to issue you a new one," she said.

By feeding the computer a person's name, sex and birthdate the original license number can be obtained. "This is sometimes difficult," Smith said. "People might forget how they were listed, and will give 'Mike' instead of 'Michael,' a married name instead of a maiden name, or forget an initial."

Duplicate numbers are in existence, although "It's amazing how rarely this happens," Smith said. "It can happen if you were born on the same day as another person of the same sex whose name comes out to the same code."

Smith said this happens most often with twins, who are frequently given first names that begin with the same initial.

"We can still find a duplicate license number on the computer by pushing one, two, three, and so on until we find it," she added.

License numbers are recorded for one year after expiration and then erased, Smith said. The exception to this occurs when there has been a traffic violation listed for the license, in which case the number is kept on file for a four-year period.

The method of assigning license numbers varies from state to state, partly due to copyrights of the various techniques, Smith said.

"The use of the social security number is very common.—Indiana has that. Otherwise, the number may or may not be coded. Some are six numbers, some are much longer," she added.

The second number used fairly often is the social security number. Contrary to what most people think, the social security number "is not to be used for identification," Dale Cain, assistant district manager at the Social Security Administration office in Champaign said.

"'John Smith' is the most common name right now, I think, and there are 28,000 of them," Cain said. "The purpose of the number is to distinguish one from another."

Cain explained that information cannot be obtained through a social security number, "not even by a driver's license bureau."

The digits in a social security number show what part of the country a person is from and in what order the application for the number was processed, Cain said.

Illinois residents live in region five, which also includes Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio. "It's one of the biggest regions," Cain said. All social security numbers in region five begin with the number three.

All of the other numbers "are just there to give us more numbers," Cain said. The numbers are assigned in sequence, and no two people have the same number.

The last four numbers in a person's social security number are given carefully. "We try to keep a bigger gap in numbers if two members of a family apply at the same time," Cain said.

If this precaution was not taken, accidentally transposing a number could change it to that of a sibling, resulting in confusion because of the similarity of name and address. "It's just a way to reduce human error," Cain added.

If another person has a number identical to yours except for the last digit, he or she applied for a social security number close to the same time you did, he said.

When the last four numbers turn to 9,999, the middle two numbers advance by one, Cain explained.

When the middle two numbers reach 99, the first group of numbers advance by one. "You can see why it takes awhile to change—9,999 people with each new change," Cain said.

At the Charleston IGA Foodliner, driver's license numbers are required to purchase anything with a check. The reason the license number is preferred over a social security number is that "it's about the only real identification you have," a store spokesman said. "The state's attorney can't get any information through a social security number."

"The state's attorney will not collect on a check, or prosecute, without a driver's license," the spokesman said.

When a check bounces, IGA policy is to try to collect twice, first by calling the writer of the check, then by notifying the writer by mail. The check writer has seven days in which to respond. If no response is made, the check is turned over to the state attorney's office, because "the information they need is only available to them, not to a company, or an individual," the spokesman explained.

A bad check must be turned in to the state's attorney within 60 days, because "the small claims court won't take it after that," the spokesman added.

The Raunchy Roommates

Bob Hope's special has the right timing

LOS ANGELES — War cries and patriotic whoopings, a new military draft and Cold War II...

"The timing is fantastic," Bob Hope talking. He senses that the mood in America is just right for a six-hour retrospective of his entertainment tours for American troops. It seems a bit cold, but he is probably right.

A curious bit of irony; the Soviet intervention of Afghanistan seems likely to ruin NBC's plans for a Moscow Olympics ratings bonanza this summer. But the patriotic fervor in the air may well make a big winner of "Bob Hope's Overseas Christmas Tours: Around the World With the Troops." Six hours of big ratings, and on Sunday evenings this weekend and next, when NBC usually finishes third behind CBS and ABC.

'Hardhat' star is swept into a romantic film

LOS ANGELES — Sharon Gless was swept into the TV movie "Hardhat and Legs" like a whirlwind romance.

"I got a call in the morning," she said, "The script was delivered at noon, at 4 p.m. I gave my decision and that night I was on a plane to New York."

She stars with Kevin Dobson in "Hardhat and Legs," a romantic comedy airing Saturday on CBS.

(AP) Brights

It was written by Garson Kanin and Ruth Gorden, their first collaborative effort since the 1952 movie "Pat and Mike," starring Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn.

"It was fun. I'd never worked in New York before," Gless said. "I was the only Californian in the cast. The movie's almost like a love letter to New York."

Transplant dog keeps pace with canines

URBANA — A shetland sheepdog named Lady can give you a lickin' while her heart keeps on tickin' thanks to a veterinarian at the University of Illinois.

Lady, back for an annual checkup this week, is doing as well as nay nine-year-old canine because of the heart pacemaker Dr. Eugene Musselman implanted in 1974.

"There was no chance for h if e didn't do it," Musselman said. "With other medical treatment the dog might have lived two or three months."

Instead, six years later, Lady follows Musselman around the clinic while he works, and goes home with him at night.

"This dog has done splendidly," Musselman said. "I've even seen her chase other dogs and cats."

Musselman said Lady differs slightly from a normal dog because her heartbeat is set at a fixed rate, and therefore her staying power is limited. She can run, for example, but not continuously for a long time.

Vadim's latest starlet to star in fantasy film

HOLLYWOOD — Roger Vadim's latest discovery is an Oklahoma-born, Texas-raised soap opera actress named Cindy Pickett.

She follows a distinguished tradition. Other Vadim proteges: Brigitte Bardot, Catherine Deneuve, Annette Stroyberg, Jane Fonda. All but Deneuve he married.

Vadim, who introduced a new sexuality to the screen as a member of France's New Wave of the 1950s, is bringing out his first film in three years, "Night Games." Cindy Pickett stars as a Beverly Hills wife whose sexual repression is played out in nightly fantasies.
